Fedon takes out Long Term Care insurance for its collaborators.

With a view to constantly caring for the wellbeing and health of its collaborators, Fedon is offering them a new guarantee of economic protection in the event of the loss of self-sufficiency.

As we know, the loss of self-sufficiency is a problem that is handled almost completely within the family circle, with considerable sacrifices from an economic, emotional and psychological point of view.

This insurance is intended to help the family to deal with the problem with greater peace of mind.

This is just the latest of Fedon's numerous initiatives for providing assistance for employees and their families. After its exemplary handling of the Covid-19 health emergency by offering specific support and affinity at a difficult time, the Company is now promoting this new health coverage for its employees, with the possibility of extending it to family members under the same conditions.
